Support the event!

Join us in shaping the discussion on digital transformation by and participating in the expo.

A hybrid conference with 1,000+ highly-interested e-governance specialists from all over the world are expected to attend online, with more than 300 participants on-site in Tallinn.

We inform, inspire, share ideas, and foster high-level connections with e-governance decision makers and strategists.

Hybrid Conference

This year the conference explores the drivers for viable social change from capacity building to a culture of cybersecurity:

- How can governments enhance digital capacities and skills in the public sector and society in general?
- What are the main obstacles to designing processes, services, and policies to address digital vulnerability?
- How should data be governed in the public sector, and what impact does it have on society?
- How automation and machine learning changes data governance processes, and how may citizens benefit?
- How can governments improve cybersecurity behaviour across society by better considering humans vis-à-vis technology?

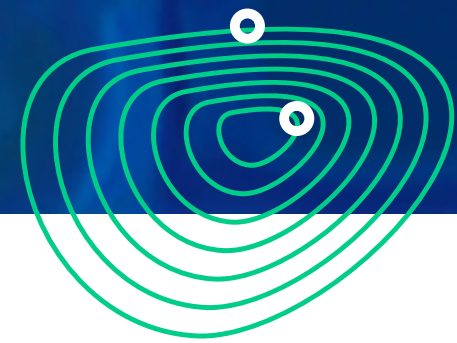

Participants from more than 100 countries

- Governmental decision makers and strategists who are implementing national digital strategies.
- Donor organizations supporting the development of open, transparent, and efficient governance practices via IT solutions.
- The business community that is developing digital governance applications and assisting governments with implementation.
